FLOOR DEBATE

March 15, 2006 LB 1060

when those kids can see the success that these teachers have had, and when these teachers can talk to them with a lot of authority.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Time, Senator Schimek.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: For the money, you can't beat it.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Thank you, Senator Schimek. Further discussion. Senator Aguilar.

SENATOR AGUILAR: Thank you, Mr. President and members. I rise in support of the Connealy amendment, as well, and I think I need to share with you that while this discussion was going on, I received a phone call from my school district saying that they supported this amendment, as well. And I can only surmise the reason they did that is because my district has a real high Latino population there, and they've, you know, made strides in understanding the cultural differences there and have adjusted so with their teaching styles, and the achievement scores have shown and reflected that quite well. So I think they can truly understand what Senator Connealy is trying to accomplish here, and I can only say that I very, very much appreciate what he's doing and support that, and encourage everyone else to support that. I always enjoy some of the stories that Senator Chambers tells on the floor, although some of them make me angry. The one he said today, told today, made me angry, as well. He referred to the person that mistreated him as a teacher. I would never refer to such a person as a teacher. I have too much respect for that position, and I don't think that particular woman deserves that designation. Give the rest of my time to Senator Chambers, please.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you, Senator Aguilar. Thank you, Mr. President. I circulated a petition to get Little Black Sambo out of the public schools in Omaha, after I became a grown man. Then Mayor Ed Zorinsky signed the petition. The superintendent of schools was a man named Paul Miller. He said that black people should not have been offended; white people
